TAYLAH: Hey guys. My name is Taylah and I'm going to show you college.

Now as you can see college is very dormitory style so I'm going to take you into one of the rooms and show you what it's like. So as you can see you've got a bed, a desk and a heater and there's also a space for you to bring your own mini bar fridge. So as you can see the room right now is pretty bare so it's up to you guys to decorate it, personalize it, bring posters, lights, plants anything you want to make it your own.

This is a storage space so you can keep all your clothes. I've got some hanging space up here we've got a little dresser and above me there's a lot of storage as well. Here in college our bathrooms are communal so in your room you also have a sink as well some storage to keep all your bathroom essentials. Bathrooms are on each level and are divided by gender and we also have unisex and disability bathrooms as well.

Welcome to our common space and dining area here in college. This is where you'll be eating most of your meals and where breakfast is provided to you every morning. Also out the back we have a backyard where we keep our chickens and down here in our common spaces where we hold a lot of events.

Let me show you to the kitchen. This is the college kitchen where you'll be doing most of your cooking. It's super convenient. The supermarkets are just up the road as well as many other takeaway options. Here in the kitchen we've got oven, stoves, microwaves, all that sort of stuff for you but, it's up to you guys to bring your own pots and pans and other essential cooking items. We also have fridges and freezers for you guys to use.

When I first moved in I decided as well to bring a little mini fridge and that was really common for a lot of students that moved in here as well.

You don't need to worry about storing all your pots and pans in your bedroom because everyone has allocated a locker.

College is a first-year exclusive building. The communal design is perfect for those looking to have a really social experience on res. Thanks for taking the college tour with me. I hope to see you guys all next year.
